Sorry about what's happening off the Southwest coast. And I've in the Southern Ocean of of this big island that we are currently on.

There will not so much queer content notes today, I don't think there might be a general one which probably doesn't necessarily mean in contacting the queer lines. But we'll see. I'll get to that when we come to it. And yeah, hope you're well for my lot of people regardless of what they're doing a probably having an extended weekend. I hope you're enjoying yourself and some beautiful conditions yesterday. Indeed and hope you had. If you are into it, a happy Halloween. I know I did doing wrestling commentary. There it is At 9 minutes past the hour. There's the wrestling reference look for posts on my Facebook page or thereabouts to see what I got dressed up as and let's just say, it was a bloody Ripper. That's a cryptic another cryptic wrestling reference. If you know what that means.

Please, yes, please feel free to message in any way today is transparent day, which I know is not about anything to do with our politicians being accountable. Although, that would be a good thing. If they were more accountable, it's not about a show that was in its way quite good. Even if the, you know, sort of powerful person who performed, the lead role didn't turn out to be that nice.

In real life transparent day, According to medium.com, which is an above average site, has got some information on it that every year since the, on the first Sunday of November, which today certainly is according to my Roman category in something calendar, the world celebrates transparent day and it was been, we've been doing that since 2009. So where are we now? 15, 16 years and it's on about honoring. Another part of the Community. And this is a sub page, if you like of the medium.com site by taemi, I hope I have the pronunciation. Right is talking about issues to do with families, tranio, children and parents, and Guardians one presumes as well. But what about it says? It says here, what about children growing up with transparents This is what today is about

So on one side, I suppose got it wrong and actually sets about trans children and their parents no, there's plenty of days to celebrate that we're at purple dye. I suppose is one and sort of, and it's about, but some extent. Yes, it's about trans children and their families. So, this article says that despite the relatively, well, relatively we know the much higher rates of legal, and social discrimination. Reported the

Already described the relationship with their children as positive. The research also states that children have transparents. Aren't that different from other children regarding anything to do with little say attributes, like their own gender identity, sexuality, but other things in terms of, you know, what to say growth through childhood and Adolescence and similar. And so it's about debunking the myths, which makes sense. I mean, people are people that stay

Take every person, one at a time, and not assume anything because of the fact that the person is from a certain group subgroup and similar. And unfortunately though Mr. Smith's are out. There is this article says, transparents, of course don't have any impact on their kids. Development for being trans, we all have shortcomings. But last last research I saw on that about 8 billion humans have shortcomings. If you have updated research, please let me know. Maybe whatever else do the world's population check

And probably have to update that figure. And the thing is that, of course, just being trans, doesn't make someone but great, a bad, good or bad. Or in between parent, eight point two billion according to the world population clock, as I digress there. But now it's sort of, it's about sort of, you know, just as I say, taking every person one at a time, I'm used to say on the person's

Merits. I know that situation term now that perhaps doesn't get you so it's just taking each person as they are on their behavior without judgment. Even if they have done something that could possibly be called, for lack of a better word wrong, or whatever. And just not, I suppose, not assuming. And whilst I'd love to hear from, you know, parents at sorry. Transparents with children. If you are out there

Or yeah, although this I think that is the primary focus of this day, it can be about parents with trans kids as well. Love to hear your thoughts on this. What's it all about for you? The think thought that struck me? As I was putting the show together this morning and saying, how do we talk about this? I remember a few things that have come across that have stuck in my mind over the years. Yeah, sort of sometimes wall where trans people in and

In an intimate partner relationship, they appear to be in inverted commas or say appear to be. Says, they're trying their best. They can't do it anymore. They disclose that they are trans to their partner and then what happens. Now, The Stereotype was it'll be terrible for the partner, terrible father for any children involved, and of course, that is a stereotype. The thing is that they could go on and live happily ever after. I remember one personal moment of joy that I had at one time someone came

To meet at event said, you probably don't remember me. You referred me to such and such a counselor when my partner announced, she was affirming her gender identity. We're doing really well. Thank you. Yay. Now of course some people will do well, some people will break up and it might, you know, might ended amicably. Some it might be civil and look some it won't because humans are humans once again. So it's of course, going to be exactly the same for Trans people with children or parents of trans children.

In the end, but I'd love to hear from people's experiences. I mean, has there been learnings from it for all involved, sort of? Or is it just, you know, you're worried about who's going to do the dishes? And who's, how much we can we spend this week for groceries or any point in between? Any thoughts that are? Well, polite and sensible and all these sorts of things. Very, very welcome. So yeah. Love to hear from you, on all the

Let's go through them again. Most of us agree that we deserve to be paid for the work. We do not the number of candles on a birthday cake but Australia's current workplace laws allow employers to pay a lower minimum wage to someone just because they're younger it's an unfair and confusing system that cost young workers in Australia around three billion dollars a year and it's mostly pocketed by big multinational companies. These Junior rates are based on the unfair and outdated assumptions about people.

Thanks for your company. We just heard from Wilson, Dixon the mirror, and yes, some things in that may not be song. May not be ultra accurate, but as I say, well, if we can laugh at its proves, we can laugh at ourselves. Unlike

These militant right-wing activists which I'll talk about in a second. Had a message in from one of our awesome listeners and remembering of course 3 CR going on, talk shows on 3 CR including out of the pan only have awesome listeners as opposed to regular ones. And Jenny says, Jenny is very privileged to enjoy this long weekend and hope listeners are enjoying it, too. If you are in the Melbourne metro area, most people are probably turning this into four days.

Regardless of what they are doing or thinking, or Believing on Tuesday, but a critical couple of critical points which one of which I sort of there's some great telepathy going on, Jenny, I'll get to the on the first one though wanted to talk about the unfortunate scandal of Sam Hibbins, and how it affects the progressive side of politic politics with trust of offices and no Integrity. Now, the what is Jenny referring to what is the situation And that is that Victorian Greens in peace am hibbins is stepping down from the party. After engaging, in a relationship with a staffer and the Victorian green leader. Ellen sandal said, the party was made aware of the serious allegations on Tuesday. He's going to sit as an independent and he's held the seat of Prahran in Melbourne's in a Southeast since 2004.

He'd break party room rules. So this is a party ruled on it, as opposed to a sad parliamentary one or more government law. It was a significant error of judgment and understand the distress. It's caused it ended some time ago but it bridged, the party rules and he would make amends and focus on his family. Now, he's married with two children and so it's a relationship too.

Is it was consensual and you know, it's an affair. And so he's it seems, that's my were, some Affair is my word that's not in this ABC News article which summarizes it and and the they won't be more details revealed because it might compromise the staff members identity and sort of. Yeah, it

Some look obviously not obviously not right. I come back to your question, directly. Jen. How does it affect the progressive side of politics? Well, yeah, it's an affair and it's a mistake. But with all respect, I mean Barnaby, Joyce had an affair as far as I remember and was not and it wouldn't, it was not whether that everyone knew about what was going on.

Now, in what was not monogamous is Young was rightly condemned. So, I think we've got to be even-handed and take every situation on its merits, the behavior is this, you rather wear that the politician is Progressive, Centrist right-wing, Etc. The person's made a mistake, you know, he's now obviously paying a price for, it's probably the end of his political career which would be obviously a huge loss to him.

And I'm not making excuses. I don't know a lot me. I think Sam humans is at least done a fair job and so it'll be interesting to see you know, I think that is a loss but you know I think we something must have gone amok. We obviously obviously won't talk about it anymore, which is fair enough? I think we would ask to, you know, sort of, I think give him now his privacy.

Until the end of this term of parliament, which is what, well, two years away, while he'll be sitting as an independent and just try to let him represent the people of the electorate of puran I do, as I say, not, you know, sort of supporting the behavior excusing it. But obviously, let's also find it some degree of compassion forgiveness for a mistake, even if it was inappropriate.

And now your other point is one that I was going to tap into and inch on a couple of counts. And and I was particularly reminded of it. Just, of course, as I sit down on the show every week, my noon, daily Guardian Australia, headlines, come in. And well, I'm going to say General sort of difficult topic. You, I won't say content note and the headline on the Roundup today.

Says, Joe Hockey, former Treasurer who's now, the USM US ambassador has been in an ambassadorial role, pre-owned points in the US says quote. Re-election of Trump would be good for Australia. Wow now I had planned to bring this up for another reason and you've said in your email Keen to see how the outcomes the outcome of next week's u.s. election to as indirectly. It's sadly does have effect in Australia with our culture and some policies. Yeah absolutely right. So there's a few aspects to this.

First of all, I'm going to cite a Papal. Please do self-care. Do you know, sort of, from around, will say, at Australian eastern time? What are we talking? I think it'll end up being sort of Wednesday morning through Wednesday as the results begin to come through and sort of it's going to be, I think, whatever the it is likely would be my guess that, whatever the outcome of the election. I'll talk about that in a second. There's probably going to be

Some tension, friction and all that sort of thing. Let's and these are by no means the conclusive outcomes. And of course there's been a lot of talk about the presidential vote, but what a pot. Well, you know, I mean, it will also depend on how various House of Representatives and Senate seats fall as well, which would, there hasn't been a lot. I haven't seen a lot of discussion on let's say, Harris winds up by the rules and that is largely recognized in terms of the process.

And the response of largely recognized that's Obviously good thing. I would have to say from the point of view of a queer program. Given Trump's record in his 2016 to 2020 term such as the trans band in the military which we discussed a few weeks ago on the show. I would not think that would be good for queers and I'll start with quiz and then go to other issues then let's say Harris wins fairly but Trump and support and/or.

Porter's, don't really accept it. Well, that's I think there's obviously anxiety and fear going down about that. Well, if Trump wins and my Now, sort of, will that be accepted or not? Let's say it is accepted. Well, that's where we get to don't we? You know I just don't see how it would be good for Australia. I'm I really can't see that.

Yeah, sort of in my opinion because both internally, I think it would create more, it would give impetus and momentum and sort of affirmation to more conservative views here. And we've seen, you know, sort of the right wing try to

Sort of push forward. And we've largely will say, I'm going to say kept the the top, you know, sort of, I use the saying that we've kept the the levy Banks up as much as we can to stop the flood of X right wing extremism, but a trump win or even the possibility that he will claim it. I think will be something of that. Sort of great.

Concern here in Australia, hockey's comments that he said, Trump will be a known quantity and will be good for us. It won't be a hell of a lot Channel. Trump 2.0. Won't be a hell of a lot different to Donald Trump 1.0. Well, I'd like to question that based on things Trump have said, we don't really know that it offers measures of predictability where Harris will be less predictable because she needs to differentiate yourself from Biden. Well, you know Trump is going to be different from Biden. She'll be looking for real.

Election will. So Will trump will be and he says, don't forget if Trump is elected, that's it. I'm sorry. I can't really almost say much more here. He can't he can only serve one more term. Well, you know, who's to know what what he will try to do. Harris Cannon will run for re-election. Yes, if in 2028. So I, you know, I wish I could be as optimistic as Joe hockey bit.

That's what we want to call it but I can't and I think there will be great tension around the world. We saw how Trump dealt last time, we say European allies in NATO and that sort of thing. Now, I really can't see much positive for I mean, not that it's everything economically. I think it would be probably markets will be very cautious, all that sort of stuff. So, I just ask people to really from my point of view. The main thing is

Take care of yourself as a say. As this results. Come through around Wednesday Australian time. I think it's going to be a very tense situation. I have watched the first two episodes of a, what's a podcast. And also it's on YouTube by an ABC journalist called America's last election. And it's quite frightening. What this person has looked at and how the 2020 situation was

A sort of dress rehearsal for what they're planning to do with particularly so idea that the state legislatures have to certify the College votes. Now, I'm not going to try to even explain the American electoral system, someone who hasn't grown up in it, sort of, there's just a whole lot of stuff. Matt, Bevin is the author of all speaker on this podcast and he's done a really good job in my opinion.

Of examining this the situation I've listened to watch the first two episodes. Haven't had a chance to watch the one that emerged yesterday. So as I say to people just take caution Jenny to come back and said, it might be Friday till the final results. Some areas will be re contested. I know if successful people who are Trump supporters in Melbourne and that influence will grow shock. But he's now part of our Zeitgeist, Joe hockey is sadly talking out of self-interest in his apartment. Joy's views are always here.

Especially with his new Manifesto. Well, I'm not I don't know what his new Manifesto is and maybe I'll plead ignorance is bliss. There Jen he's sort of. Yeah, he wasn't. He was an interesting character. One person who I know said his treasury can't even do his math. So I thought that was a qualification warm. Boom, that if you wear a Treasurer you weren't didn't have to be able to do it anyway.

So yeah a challenging week head I think for not just progressives but a lot of people you know, the views that Trump has expressed are extreme and many issues. I'm not going to repeat the details of use, but on women's, I don't trans. And also JD Vance is running mates views. Now, I bought a Harris, Waltz team, you know, they've seemed to have a much compared to Trump. Have a much better record on quiz. Some will say, it's sort of less work.

Compared to less worse or something, but that seems to be the state of leadership and politics in so many places at the moment in the so-called Western Anglo-Saxon world and many other places as well. So yeah, just take care of yourself. Peeps, would be my honest response and you know, look after yourself. So thanks for your thoughts. Jen loved. Keep them coming for Jen and all listeners. I think what we do.

Do next will have some musics and we will, I think we'll have a change of heart, a change of light, change of plan. What's going to play a track from Ian mosses and matchbook 30th Anniversary? CD I still will do,

Not dedicated to Max Walker 63 mother Macree and all that sort of thing. And yeah, I've got a new book out and then you bored. Yeah. Anyway, uh, name very much more serious note and I know it's a difficult topic but Jen has message back again about project 25 but the manifesto well by Trump and the American well, if I can put some humour into a serious topic, the Conservative think tank, which I always say is an oxymoron the Heritage Foundation and Wikipedia tells me that it aims and I was aware of it, it's to promote conservative and right-wing policies to reshape the US federal government and consolidate executive power under the premise, that Donald Trump wins, the 22 again for election. And this is the thing that we've seen various governments over time and currently or so-called government's put more

And more power centralized in the hands of one person and you know, the project asserts a controversial interpretation of the unitary executive theory in proposes reclassifying, tens of thousands of federal civil service workers as political appointees in order to replace them with people loyal to the president. Now, that's that sounds like an f word and not a four-letter one and it would be

Would dismantle the sort of out smaller liberal government bureaucracy. The project also seeks to infuse the government and Society with Conservative Christian values and critics have Cam characterized project 2025 is an authoritarian. Christian nationalist plan to steer the u.s. towards autocracy and legal experts have said it would undermine the rule of law, separation of powers separation of church and state and civil liberties and that'd be partisan.

Control of Department of Justice FBI Department of Commerce, Federal Communications Commission Trade Commission, dismay dismantling Homeland Security. Abolishing the Department of Education is programs would be transferred or terminated make the National Institutes of Health less independent so that would affect some sort of research in relevant areas and they cut Medicare and Medicaid reject. Abortion is Healthcare. I mean, on it goes.

Instead of removing legal protections based on sexual orientation and gender identity, terminating, DIY programs, I mean, it is now sort of these the Wikipedia says, although project 2025 cannot legally promote a presidential candidate without endangering it section 501c. Tax extent, satus many contributors are associated with Trump and his campaign, so yeah, pretty scary.

Staff and I don't know. I just hope that things can fall a certain way in that people accept the result. Yeah, sort of, it's not exactly, you know, sort of it's obviously we can't control the future and all that sort of thing. I don't know. We're just going to have to wait and see what happens during the week, but certainly

Sort of not, you know so it's not pleasant thinking their Jenny. Yeah, quite horrifying indeed.

So yeah. I sort of quiet. Yeah, as I say it's just he's somewhat overwhelming and I'm even feeling that just talking about it now have some more music for now. And this is one that came my way during the week, which I kind of liked. Now, the artist's name, I am not sure of the pronunciation. I believe it's Cece and it's spelt, simply Cee Cee. The artist is notnThe Cece Winans or CeCe Peniston who did finally. This is happening to me, just simply CC and I'm not sure what you describe. The music has Blues Rhythm Soul country, but this track I'm not just appealed to my sort of eclectic, tastes it's called all boots. So it's a bit country, but it's, it's theme, but not totally in its musical sound have a listen? See what you think is me. I think, I think maybe maybe I'll be using direct that not relevant.

To this show, perhaps. But I've still got most of my music on CDs. I've even got those big vinyl CDs, they're very nice. But I got an email of great importance because it was from the forcibly displaced people Network, which is about the 20-25, queer, displacements, conference Regional challenges, Global salad solidarity, practical Solutions, focus on Asia Pacific. And it's the first to know,

Event in the Asia Pacific region. Focusing on intersectional challenges for queer plus forcibly to set the place people and the platform to foreground the voices and lived expertise of said people and it will focus on the Asia. Pacific Force displacement, criminalization sort of this still criminalization in our region as we know, including very very close to us. It's in September next year. So time to plan and look at things at Victoria

University in nam / Melbourne. And so I think that's really, really good. And well done is always to the forcibly displaced people Network for the great work that they do on a topic that still, of course, needs plenty of attention. They have certainly put it right in the front of the picture so to speak and they just do amazing amazing work. So

They are really, that's been good to see what other news came my way this week. I had an email about the eye back annual report to June, 23 24. And the key initiative was piloting at a dedicated team to investigate single incident, complaints from community members at a higher risk of experiencing police misconduct

Including Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, people with disability, in lgbtqi+ people, over a six-month period, the T pilot team Burris, s 94, complaints and commence, 24 police Personnel Misconduct investigation. So what that's about one in four of the complaints received. Now, of course, they've got to get a complaint first, you know how Tran, you know, what sort of process goes through? I don't know, I'm only quote unquote,

Ting the media released here, I bet commissioner Victoria. Elliott said the pilots decrease the time. It took to assess complaints and notifications as well as the time to complete investigation and there's been 13 formal recommendations. What they're in a tuxedo night that's about or joke to Victoria Police with some investigation, still in progress. So look it's a start. I know that the police debates of all sorts of very, very well hotly contested.

Might be one way to put her off and hotly contested won't generalize. And there's sort of needs to be this sort of thing investigation. I back again. 14, preliminary inquiries into and 36 investigations into alleged public sector corruption and misconduct 72 percent increase compared to the previous Financial year. Now, that bit curious people have settling down after covert. Is there more corruption one doesn't know

No. But, you know, it look, I think that, you know, that when I picked the unclogged to put it, politely unconscious bias is probably a critical issue in these sorts of things. And, you know, it's good that they're doing that unit, but now I'm well aware of the issues that many communities face. And in terms of lgbtiq, I plus, and police, I think we need to be very, very conscious of the first of the difference between

Don't say gay lesbian, bi trans. I'm not going to speak for intersex on this one. There may be issues. There may not be, but most likely, and then, of course, intersections such as people of color in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander so certainly, you know, lots to be considered. They're so good to see that. That's happy. If you've got any thoughts that we're out of time on the show now, please pop them through to me.

That is as I say all the time we have on out of the pan today freedom of species up next. They're talking food justice issues, which is very, very cool.
